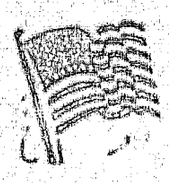
Celebration Here Follows Capitulation News



Fifty years ago this week, their war was finally over

By ALISON ALOISIO

With the modesty typical of their generation, they'll say you should be interviewing some other, more noteworthy World War II veteran.

But get past that, and in each case there's a story worth telling.

Three area veterans shared theirs last week, as the 50th anniversary of VJ Day approaches.

Joining the WAVES

Becky Bailey of Bethel and her late husband, Bruce, joined the service together in 1943. He joined the Army, and she signed up with the Navy WAVES.

"I wanted to go into the Navy for something different," she said. "I did it out of a sense of obligation. I wanted to do something to keep democracy going."

Meanwhile, her husband's reason for choosing the Army wasn't exactly typical, either -- he wanted to join the cavalry. But when it was consummated shortly after he enlisted, he was sent to the Army Corps of Engineers.

She spent most of the war on Long Island, at an advance base and training unit. Her job was providing for transporting soldiers across the country, as well as overseas. "I knew every railroad in the U.S.," she said.

Becky said it was not easy for the base captain to accept the presence of the WAVES.

"He made us do everything the men did. We had to learn how to fire battleship guns," she said.

She said that at regular captain's inspections, the women had to put up the American flag in front of the whole base. She said if it wasn't folded correctly, it would go up the pole upside down.

"We were always afraid of that," she said.

She said the captain was getting ready to teach the WAVES how to use handguns when he had a change of heart.

"He got used to us, and decided we were more efficient to have in the office," she said.

She knew when troops would be headed for Europe. The tip-off came not through the Navy, but from the crowds on the streets of New York.

"The British sailors started disappearing from the streets of Manhattan. You knew the troop ships had gone out, because the British Navy escorted them," she said.

Bruce landed in Normandy on D-Day. He was also in the Battle of the Bulge.

"I didn't find out for three weeks that he survived Normandy," she said.

Her work kept her mind off worrying.

"When people came home from overseas, we'd work late to get their paychecks out so they could get home sooner. You were concerned with things other than yourself," she said.

Minesweeping the Pacific

Ellsworth Hathaway of Woodstock was drafted early in his senior year of high school in 1943.

He served on a Navy minesweeper in the Pacific, clearing a safe path for Navy ships in four different invasions.

He and his crewmates on the U.S.S. Sage had more than just

School Board makes the cuts

Gone: the equivalent of 3.5 teachers, new computers, bus, library books. Staying: AES 6th-grade, all administrators

By ALISON ALOISIO

In a 6-hour marathon session last Wednesday, the SAD44 School Board cut $500,000 out of its FY'96 budget.

District voters -- saying the originally proposed 20.5 percent increase in the local assessment was just too much to bear -- had demanded the cuts in an emotional July 31 budget meeting.

Among the largest items eliminated from the budget were: $110,000 of computer technology and services; a new $46,000 school bus, $30,000 of upgrades to the Telstar library; and $25,000 for activity/late bus runs.

A total of 6.2 existing jobs were eliminated. They included: health teacher/coordinator; high school French teacher; one-half high school math teacher; Telstar business teacher; one-half high school/middle school educational technician; 1.2 elementary library positions; and a Woodstock School educational technician.

Instructional services eliminated included the outdoor skills and leadership challenge program; contracted art, music, gifted and talented, and summer guidance.

Supplies and other support services made up the remainder of the cuts.

The decisions didn't come easily. School administrators initially presented a package of cuts to the board, saying they represented a fair distribution of the burden among district schools. Many of those items were cut.

But also on the administrators' list was a teaching position at the Andover School, an administrator, a new ADA-compliant elevator at Telstar, a high school English teacher, and the district's share of the Mahoosuc Arts program. Those items were ultimately saved, after the board made cuts elsewhere instead.

The Andover position and the administrator were the most controversial, along with a separate attempt at one point to eliminate all athletics.

Andover teacher spared

Many of the 80 citizens in Wednesday's audience were Andover parents. The issue of saving a teacher's salary by moving the school's dozen sixth-graders to the middle school, where they would join the rest of the district sixth-graders, has been a regular topic of debate over the years. Parents have opposed the move.

An attempted compromise two years ago, involving eliminating the teacher and combining classes, failed after parents said it didn't work. The teacher was then reinstated.

When the issue came up again last week, the Andover citizens were quick to protest.

"I can't even believe you're talking about the sixth grade -- forget about it," said Rick Mills.

Board member Kelli Scotti agreed.

"You know what the public thinks about it. There must be places we can cut without taking a teacher out of Andover," she said.

Director Debbie Gilbert of Newry saw it differently.

"I don't understand why we can't have the sixth graders go to a sixth grade middle school. Then we could keep the other grades in Andover as they are," she said.

Margaret Hand of Woodstock agreed with Gilbert, saying Woodstock had sent its sixth graders to the middle school several years ago.

But when it came to a vote, the decision went easily in favor of keeping the Andover teacher.

THE CLOCK STRUCK ONE, BUT NO ONE WAS EXITING the special School Board meeting which began at 7 p.m. Wednesday and lasted until 1:15 a.m. Thursday morning. The school directors eventually agreed upon $500,000 in cuts -- as district voters had demanded at a meeting Monday. Here, SAD44 business manager Bruce Powell tracks the bottom line impact of the various reductions proposed by the directors.

Charles Gill is arrested again

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Charles Gill, a former mental health counselor at the Bethel Area Health Center, is back in jail.

Gill, 58, was arrested Friday at his Bailey Road residence by two U.S. Marshalls, assisted by Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman.

Gill was charged with violating the conditions of his bail -- by traveling outside Oxford County.

According to a clerk at the U.S. District Court in Portland, the government claims Gill went to Bangor in July without obtaining permission from his probation officer.

The government also claims Gill made misrepresentations to the probation officer.

Gill's attorney for the federal case is on vacation; but Portland attorney Peter J. DeTroy III, who is representing Gill in the state case, said Gill had apparently traveled to Bangor to look at records in the state licensing bureau.

DeTroy characterized the government's move to revoke bail as excessive. "I think he (Gill) probably just irritated everyone," DeTroy said.

Gill's probation officer, Karen Moody, said Tuesday that she could not comment further on the matter.

Gill was initially arrested in December 1994 on charges that he impersonated a psychologist and used a false passport.

The impersonation charges are state offenses; the passport charge is a federal matter.

In February Gill was released on bail, and he returned to Bethel to await trial.

9th Annual Middle Intervale Meeting House Society
QUILT SHOW
Saturday, August 20th
10 AM - 4 PM at the Meeting House

In and Mrs [illegible] Holt and son [illegible] of [illegible] Mrs Norma Ford, and family. Lt Holt has just returned from two years service with the Army engineers in the South Pacific. He entered the service with a Massachusetts National Guard anti-aircraft unit in the fall of 1940.

Pfc James W Bryant of Bethel is a member of the 422nd Infantry Regiment of the 106th "Lion" Division. He is one of the 106 men to receive the bronze battle star for participation in the Northern France campaign. All had previously won battle stars for participation in the Rhineland campaign. For two days and two nights this unit held out against two German divisions in the Bulge, being completely encircled the second day.

Word has been received by Mr and Mrs D H Tebbets, Locke Mills, of the safe arrival of their son, John, "somewhere" in the Pacific.

Mrs Harold Marshall, Locke Mills has received word of the safe arrival of her husband in the Pacific.

Pvt Delma J Ross of the U S M C stationed at Parris Island, South Carolina, spent several days of a fifteen day furlough last week at F W Wight's in North Newry.

Sgt Roy C Tripp is spending a 30 day furlough with his parents, Mr and Mrs S T Tripp, North Newry, after being overseas two years.

Sgt Harris Tyler, who has been in the Pacific area nearly three years, has received his discharge from the army and arrived at his home at East Bethel Friday night.

Cpl Nathaniel E Burns, who has been serving in Italy, arrived home at East Bethel Monday night on a 30 day furlough.

Sgt Roy C Tripp, son of Mr and Mrs S T Tripp of North Newry arrived home on Aug 21 for a 30 day furlough after spending 28 months in England with the 8th Air Force as a repair man. He has been the guest of Perley Flint at Bosebuck camps for a few days.

Pfc Richard Bennett, son of Mr and Mrs Roy Bennett of North Newry after spending 22 months on several islands has now been transferred from New Guinea to Luzon. He is in the Anti Aircraft division.

Cpl Emery Vail of North Newry is now stationed in Kelsterback, Germany, with the Army of occupation.

AIN'T SEEN NOTHING YET

To the Editor:

In response to your editorial "No Sweat" I would make the following comments:

I attended the SAD44 meeting and democracy is definitely awake. I am extremely impressed.

The theme of the meeting that I heard was that the citizens of the area are no longer willing to accept the trend of public sector employees being better paid than area private sector employees. This is a nationwide problem, and the schools are the easiest local target. I personally feel, and I see a lot of agreement, the situation of having the state and federal governments stealing us blind, then requiring us to meet their criteria to receive our money back, is intolerable. It shall not continue.

To further the issue I hereby offer to anyone who wishes to air any opinion on Radio Sunraider the air time to do so. Please contact me and I shall make the arrangements.

I wish also to take issue with the statements that "...A small number of well organized right wing groups turned out to vote...inflicting us with an extremist Congress..."

As I see it, preceding the election we had a Congress dominated by Socialist Democrats passing vast amounts of unconstitutional legislation. Now we have Socialist Republicans carrying on business in the same manner.

This is one "right wing extremist" that will not rest until the United States is set back squarely on its constitutional footing and the movement toward a collectivist world government is stopped dead!

For this reason I am not only supporting Charles E. Collins for the Republican Nominee for the President of the United States, I will be managing his campaign in Maine. I request that any like-minded people contact me as soon as possible.

Charles can be heard and will answer questions from the general public every Monday evening at 10 p.m. on Radio Sunraider 88.7 FM or WWCR 5.065 Mhz. short wave.

Finally, Mr. Editor, if you find the "waking of America" frightening, You ain't seen nothin' yet!

Greg Blahm

QUIT WHINING, YOU LIBERALS

To the Editor:

Your editorial last week revealed an interesting trait about liberals -- they are not gracious losers.

When a liberal wins an election or cause, the majority of mainstream media declares it a "victory of the people," the "people have spoken, etc. However, whenever conservative causes are advanced, liberals such as the Citizen's editor declare it a fluke, that right wing extremist groups have somehow gained mind control of the masses and forced them to vote for a cause which they wouldn't have voted for in their "right mind."

Last week's editorial is a perfect example of why liberalism has and will continue to fail in the United States. Liberal elitists refuse to accept the fact that the majority of voters are informed, intelligent people capable of making up their own minds. They also refuse to accept the fact that the majority of voters are hard-working people with traditional values who are happy to give to worthwhile causes, but who are convinced that government bureaucracy is the problem, not the solution.

The Citizen's editor and other liberals might do well to quit whining about their overwhelming defeat last November and acknowledge the fact that taxpayers in this country are angry and fed up with pouring money into wasteful government programs. Then and only then will we be able to get on track and make this country an even greater place to live which ultimately should be everyone's goal.

CRITICIZED FOR VOTING

To the Editor:

The editor of the Bethel Citizen has taken legal citizens to task for doing their duty, attending a town meeting, and voting their conscience. In his latest editorial he refers all conservatives as the "crazed minority," blaming the "slackers" and "no-shows" for not stopping tax increases. This happens to be a democracy, Mr. Editor. We were asked to spend $4,200 for a search party looking for a town manager. I personally offered to go to Orono where they teach this profession to conduct an informal study where I would be on familiar ground, and stated that I felt competent. This fell on deaf ears, so the spenders of our money were defeated. The editor is right when he talks of apathy, however. This is the reason that every child born today will pay over $187,000 in taxes just to pay the interest on our national debt.

As to the proposed town manager for some 660 people, because I was to be away, I wrote that there are many of us who would be willing to serve the town of Greenwood for zero dollars if the selectmen needed help in running the town. Evidently the editor takes issue with people helping people, and would rather stay with the old spend and tax mentality. Living in the house that Christopher Bryant built, I can almost hear him talking about self-reliance and self-sufficiency. Nobody cares anymore!

As far as the SAD44 request, there is something obscene about allowing a union to intimidate the school board to sign a contract before we even had a chance to vote money someone else worked for. I agree that the "no-shows" that the editor mentions have allowed people to keep on doing the same things as long as they have ironclad job guarantees and are paid because of title alone.

Much of what is called "public service" is to make work for people who have degrees, but scant skills that would get them the kind of monies they feel entitled to in the market place. I would expect that the union also negotiated the concept of "tenure" (businessmen are so short-sighted), and the $4,000 gift if their insurance is not needed.

Yes, Mr. Ed, we have to blame the "no-shows" for the last 50 years of decline in morality, education, the work ethic, and the confidence in our political system. It seems only fair to ask about any expenditure or law, who benefits? I think it is time to stop mulcting the taxpayers.

WEIGHTY DECISIONS--SAD44 school directors cast their weighted votes at last week's special meeting to trim $500,000 from the FY '96 budget. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

CUT WAS PENNY WISE, POUND FOOLISH

To the Editor:

Everyone knows it. Everyone says so. But no one wants to pay for it.

I've heard all the arguments.

There's too much pork. The teachers make too much. We can't afford it.

The one I love the most is: My kids have graduated. What do I care?

I hate to admit it, but the naysayers are finally about to beat me down. As much as I have fought with everyone defending our school system, I just don't have the energy any more.

I want my children to have the best education they can get. They work hard to deserve one. They get good grades. They study. This country was built on the proposition that hard work would bring reward. I won't let my children work their tails off in a system that is slowly dooming them to failure. There is little art budget and none for a band. One of my best friends in high school went on to conduct the Boston Symphony, and he graduated from a tiny town in Texas that was a lot poorer than Bethel. But we had a band!

My wife and I are considering a private school for the first time since our kids reached school age. If Bethel can't afford an education for its children, then it will deserve the future it buys. It's easy enough to see throughout the U.S. Go to the schools in Appalachia. Check out the schools in the deep south. And see what lack of funds for education means in the surrounding areas. It is a circle of decay that begins with childhood and ends in a life of poverty.

It's already begun here. Everyday more and more Bethelites and people from surrounding towns send their children to Gould or Hebron. Who out there doesn't know families that are already doing so? And what are we creating?

A small town segregated by income.

It amounts to being a penny rich and a pound foolish.

What difference will it make that you saved money on the school system in 1995, when the entire skilled work force in Bethel has to be imported in 2001? Is it the mill mentality? Is that all Bethel wants for its kids and grandkids, a supposedly secure job behind a machine? Or is it that you don't care about their income as long as the tourists and skiers fill your businesses?

Bethel wants it both ways.

We want to live in Maine. Pay Maine type taxes. Be a rural community with rural values and prices. We want to laugh at high school budgets in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

And we want to sell our property for premium ski area prices and charge top dollar for our rooms and goods. And I have a school district that those Connecticut people wouldn't be ashamed to send their children to.

Make up your minds.

Chad McGrew

CUT THE ADMINISTRATIVE FLUFF

To the Editor:

My point is you really don't need a master's degree in math to figure out where the fat is in our school budget.

If 75 percent of our school budget is wages -- this is not all teachers' wages; the administration with the fringe benefits -- i.e. travel (Ireland) etc. is not in line with basic teaching.

The board should have cut administration and support staff before touching the essence of education.

Our townspeople -- some with high school education, some with college degrees -- are treated as if they don't know enough to see the fat in our schools.

It is time we taxpayers in this district, regardless of our education, who have good common sense stand up and take charge. We have to exercise our right to vote using our common sense.

We have had a few voices that tell it like it is -- Dot Murphy, Pat Dineen and Marie Bartlett -- let's get behind them.

Pat Blake

NEED AN EFFICIENCY EXPERT

To the Editor:

In regards to the budget cuts for SAD44 I would like to offer a suggestion.

If the superintendent and the board members can't find places to cut without firing people, then it is time to spend a little money to save a lot. There are private companies whose job it is to go to different businesses and study them to find ways to reduce costs and improve efficiency. They are called efficiency experts. For about $25,000 they will find any waste or tell you there is none and put everyone's mind at ease. This will also take the pressure off board members who don't want the responsibility for layoffs. These people should really resign if they aren't willing to do the unpopular duties of being an elected official. That is, a person elected by others to do a job they don't want. Remember you asked for the job.

For those of you who don't consider a school district a business, how many other operations in the district have a $7 million dollar budget, deal with union contracts and only work 185 days a year?

It would seem to me the only people who would oppose hiring an expert at finding ways to reduce a budget would be those with something to hide. It's a one-time audit, so to speak, that's time has come.

Remember everything is specialized now. If you have a problem with your ear and your regular doctor can't fix it you are referred to an ear specialist. If your Ford pickup has motor trouble and your regular mechanic can't fix it you are referred to a Ford dealer. This is quite common. If you need to reduce your school budget and the person you hired to do it can't fix it then you get an expert to tell you how.

Just think, on a $7 million budget a mere 5 percent waste would be $350,000. Is there really no waste at all? How much does it cost for kids to cruise the Internet on school computers or for outdated computers to be sitting idle?

How generous is the health benefits package for SAD44 employees?

Everyone feels negotiating with the teacher's union means giving them what they want or they'll strike. Someone said to get quality teachers the pay must be competitive. Baloney.

The pay in Maine isn't competitive with a lot of states. What SAD44 does offer is a nearly crime free, pollution free, environment with a myriad of outdoor activities and an excellent wage for the area. There are many unemployed inner city teachers who would respond to a want-ad from this district in a heartbeat.

If a $30,000 a year teacher went on strike in Woodstock and continued to be supported by people making $12 to $15,000 per year, how long would that teacher feel welcome in the community.

SAD44 has always bragged about what a nice area it is to live and raise your children. Well, believe it or stop saying it. If it is so nice a lot of people will take a cut in pay to teach in the area, or if they are unemployed be very grateful. Since there is no merit system or way of comparing one teacher's ability against another you have no way of knowing what quality teacher you are getting or what you already have, so what is the real point of offering more money other than to avoid confronting a union.

THIS TIME IT'S HARD BALL

To the Editor:

We have reached an impasse in our budget negotiations. We now need to seek help elsewhere. We need an accounting firm to get to the head of this mess and turn it around. Before anyone starts screaming "we can't afford it," we've got a lot of things in this district we can't afford, so quit watering about it. What's done is done, what was done was some kind of expensive. Let's not be high jinked again.

It won't come cheap for sure, but in the long run, to get this district back on track will be worth it. Just to stop this same hassle year after year would be refreshing.

Shortly, this budget comes back to the voters. We must turn out in force again, or it goes back to the original $7 million. I know it seems senseless to you, but if we don't stop it this year, we'll be hit with $8 million next year.

Nobody likes the idea of cutting some programs and hurting a student. What does 20 percent of a $7 million budget give our kids. Not a lot if the truth were known. Twenty percent car-marked for education is slim to nothing.

We've got it to do, only this time it's hard ball. We've said no loud and long, now it's up to us to make it stick. Now it's time to find out where our money goes and why. An accountant is the only way we'll ever know. Let's get on with it, shall we?

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The life and times of Dr. John G. Gehring and his wife, Marian True Gehring, was the subject of the August meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

Dick and Sally Taylor provided a number of insights into the world of this couple who established the Gehring Clinic for persons with nervous disorders a century ago in Bethel, attracting wealthy clientele for the next 30 years. Dr. Gehring was a native of Cleveland, Ohio, trained as a medical doctor, who following his own nervous breakdown, decided to found a place to help people suffering from nervous exhaustion.

He married a widow, a native of Bethel, the daughter of Dr. Nathaniel T. True, who was instrumental in founding what became Gould Academy in 1835. They came to live in Dr. True's old house at the end of Broad Street, but that soon burned in 1896 and the present house, now owned by the National Training Laboratory, was built near the site of the old home.

Dr. Gehring prescribed a regime of exercise, rest and dress for dinner, where one was not allowed to talk about him or herself, but to discuss cultural subjects. He was ably helped in his work by his wife, who managed the household with a confident and firm hand.

LOOKING BACK

10 years ago: The Telstar Girl Scout camp ended two weeks of day camp on the Blake property on the Middle Intervale Road in Bethel. The Bethel Area Steam Era Railroadiana Museum opened in the rail beside the Bethel dining diner (now a part of the Bethel Area Health Center). A new chandelier, designed and constructed by Robert H. Klar and given by Lt. Gen. and Mrs. James D. Alger, was hung in place at the Middle Intervale Meeting House. Angela Lovejoy was Honorary Ringmaster for the Day at the Roberts Bros. Circus held at Pat Murphy's ballfield on Bridge Street. Births: Katherine Swasey Kurt Wight, Ian Andrews, Camden Elliott-Williams. Deaths: Cecil Lapham, Stanley Seames, Waina Heikkinen, Earl Enman.

20 years ago: The board of directors of SAD44 approved Principal Edward Flynn's request to house the overflow of grade-six students normally assigned to the R.C. Foster School, Newry, to facilities at Telstar High School. At a special meeting, the Bethel selectmen approved Merton Brown as town clerk. Harry and Agnes Foster Chase were guests of honor at the K. of P. Hall, Hanover, in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. Deaths: Joseph Vetquosky, Hazen Johnson.

30 years ago: The Spoon and Hoe 4-H Club's float was first-prize winner in the Mollyockett Day Parade. The Covered Wagon in Mayville opened and was serving pizzas and Italian sandwiches from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Bethel's "Teen-Queen" candidates were Vickie Brown, Jean Robertson, Rosemary Stowell, Pam Douglass, Eileen Saunders. Birth: Eric Hutchins. Marriage: Patricia Sutherland and Timothy Brooks. Deaths: Mary Holt, Harry Packard, Wilbertmine Simpson, Rex Martin.

40 years ago: Kusti V. Ylen of Greenwood City was killed when the coupe in which he was riding crashed through trees at the shore of Hicks Pond. The eighth annual Eames reunion was held at the old homestead on the Branch Road in Newry. Marriage: Janice Stearns and Thomas Snyder. Deaths: Kusti Ylen, Kathryn Hennan.

50 years ago: King Bartlett, the popular station agent at Locke Mills, retired from active duty with the railroad after 37 years of "railroading." Irving "Blackie" Cummings was a member of a Navy "Liberator" which sank a Japanese ship and shot down a "Nell." Marriage: Bernice Evans and Roscoe Swain.

100 years ago: It was reported that Eli Barker had one of the best fields of corn and potatoes in Bethel (he owned the present Ersel Murphy home near the Androscoggin River bridge which then extended to the Chair Factory Road, now Cross Street). Mr. Hodgdon was planning to "rebuild the dam which was carried away on Mill Brook last spring." (The remainder of this dam may be seen from holes 2 and 3 on the Bethel Inn Golf Course). Hastings Brothers of Bethel contracted to put two new furnaces in Gould Academy and one in the new schoolhouse at East Bethel. The Bohemian Glass Blowers, since June, has given exhibitions of blowing and spinning glass in each town in the area (Bethel, Bryant Pond, Andover, etc.), spending several days in each place; prizes were awarded for the best lady waltzer, the best gentleman waltzer, and prettiest child under five, etc. Deaths: Madison Bartlett, Clark Wight.

Briefly

Bluebird family reunited in Andover

ANDOVER--Three of four abandoned baby bluebirds have been reunited with their mother after spending two weeks under the care of Lorena and Becky Simmons. The mother had disappeared after the pole supporting her birdhouse fell down. The babies were rescued by the Simmons, and grew quickly on a diet of cat food and worms. Last week Lorena put the young birds outside on the perch of another birdhouse, and the mother returned for them. The fourth bird, slower to develop, was expected to be ready to fly off early this week. "It's very rewarding to think the mother thinks enough of her babies to come back," said Lorena.

Manager search will go on

GREENWOOD-The town's attorney advised selectmen to go ahead with a search for a town manager, despite the fact that funding for the process was voted down at a special Town Meeting. Chair Marie Bartlett said they were told they could spend a "reasonable" amount of money -- which they have agreed to set at about $1,000. The funds will come from the officers' salary and miscellaneous accounts. Selectmen plan to start their search right away, advertising both locally and throughout the state. Bartlett said she expects to be able to get some guidelines on the process from the Maine Municipal Association at no cost.

BB shots damage area property

BETHEL--Police are investigating a Wednesday night BB gun shooting spree which damaged a business, a residence, and two cars. The Keenan Auction Company on Main St. had four windows punctured by shots. On Mill Hill, Roger Conant's picture window was hit. Cars parked at the Irving Station and at a Songo Pond residence were also damaged in amounts of $200 and $150, respectively.

Stearns stays

WOODSTOCK--Town manager Vern Maxfield said Friday that Mark Stearns will not resign as code enforcement officer. He had submitted his resignation earlier in the week. "He has reconsidered and will be staying on with us," Maxfield said.

Slow employment growth predicted

GORHAM--A report released by the University of Southern Maine predicts the Androscoggin River Valley region of Androscoggin, Franklin, and Oxford Counties will be one of the slowest-growing in both employment and occupation in the state. The report said that although about 8,000 jobs should be added over the next five years, the region's share of Maine's jobs and population will decline. The per capita personal income will increase in absolute terms, but continue to be below the average for the state.

Wetlands permitting easier

AUGUSTA--A new law streamlining the permitting process for freshwater wetlands projects was signed by Gov. Angus King on July 3. Changes will include the adoption of a joint permit application form for both DEP and the Army Corps of Engineers, exemption from permitting or an expedited review process for smaller projects, and coordination between DEP and federal agencies on screening and reviewing applications.

Amtrak scheduled for 1996

PORTLAND--Passenger rail service between Portland and Boston will arrive as scheduled in 1996, two years after the original start-up date, a federal transportation official said. Maine stands to lose $500,000 in federal transit aid under a proposal by House Republicans, but the budget should have no impact on the passenger rail link between Portland and Boston, according to administrator Grace Crunican. Amtrak spokesman Rick Remington said, "You can rest assured, we're in negotiations with the state of Maine to restore passenger rail service to Maine. We're very confident we'll be able to do that."

Town gets free lobster feed

ISLAND FALLS--A truck ran off the highway last week and left a windfall: 14,000 pounds of free lobster. With no facilities available to handle the $55,000 worth of lobster, the truck owner asked police to arrange to have them distributed to the folks in town. "There are a lot of people in Island Falls and the surrounding communities who are very happy tonight," state trooper Timmy Saucier said. The truck driver apparently fell asleep and crashed through a guardrail. The rig tumbled down an embankment and rolled at least twice. The driver suffered a minor head injury.

Women ski jumpers come to Rumford

RUMFORD--Black Mountain will be the first site in the U.S. to have a women's ski jumping international exhibition, according to U.S. Ski Association official Becky Mauch. Details are still being worked out, but the organizers' plan is to have the event Feb. 24 and 25, 1996. Mauch said the women could also have a guest class at the Junior Olympics the following weekend at Lake Placid. She said that while more females have taken up ski jumping in recent years, there has never been a separate division. Mauch said officials' goals are to establish such a division, eventually leading to a separate Olympic team.

Saddleback protests land acquisition

AUGUSTA--Representatives of the Saddleback Mountain Ski Area have stepped up their complaints about a National Park Service effort to protect the Appalachian Trail, charging the federal agency with wasting time and money and blocking business opportunity in western Maine. "The Appalachian Trail Project has become a government boondoggle of the worst order," wrote Owen Wells, a lawyer for the the ski area, in calling for a congressional investigation of the park service. "While I do not oppose government acquisition of a corridor for the Appalachian Trail, I certainly oppose the National Park Services's clear overreaching to attempt to acquire nearly 3,000 acres of the Saddleback Ski Area's land, seriously jeopardizing an economic base for the Rangeley area," wrote Wells in a July 26 letter to Sen. William Cohen. Saddleback has offered to donate a corridor across its land for the trail, and general manager Tom McAllister said the federal agency should be satisfied with that. He said that facing uncertainty affecting 25 percent of its land has hampered Saddleback's ability to expand. Meanwhile, Donald King, acting project manager of the Appalachian National Scenic Trail, said the corridor offered won't protect the scenic and natural qualities of the mountain. But he said he was optimistic a resolution could be reached.

From the

Bethel Town Office

Tuesday, Aug. 8, marked the 20th anniversary of Merton Brown's employment as clerk for the Town of Bethel. Please join us in congratulating him on his longevity and commitment to the town.

The Shade Tree Committee offers this reminder of their general focus and notification of scheduled tree service. The key elements of a shade tree program are maintaining the health of existing trees, removing hazardous, dead or dying trees, and planting new trees. This year's budget permits a start on this long-needed program on a priority basis.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 22 and 23, Whitney Tree Service is scheduled to begin this work. Removal has priority, plus as much of the pruning as two days permit. Brush will be chipped and removed, trunk sections removed and burnable-sized limbs cut to manageable lengths and left for owners or scavengers. A future objective is to replace the removed trees with new trees as allowed by the budgeting process.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Shade Tree Committee for their commitment to the beautification of our community.

Note: Tax lien notices will soon be drafted. Please avoid the processing charge by paying any taxes or sewer bills now.

Note: Mason Street will be closed from Spring Street to Broad Street on Aug. 12 from 6 p.m. to midnight (Sudbury Canada Days).

RESPECT OUR FLAG

To the Editor:

O -- Opportunity for all.
U -- United we stand.
R -- Resolve unbending.

F -- Freedom to choose.
L -- Loyalty to our values.
A -- Allegiance to our flag.
G -- God before country provides foundation.

I am very proud and have a lot of respect for our flag. I just don't understand why people leave their flag out all night with no light shining.

Our flag requires attention and respect. When it becomes torn and weather-beaten, it should be replaced. Your local American Legion would be happy to dispose of unserviceable flags.

Individuals who wish to show their colors by displaying Old Glory should be aware of the flag code and treat it with respect.

The U.S. flag flies above all others in this country. It's a fact that Old Glory's presence is taken for granted by many Americans. Little do they realize that over 1.4 million men and women have paid the ultimate price for the flag they served.

As long as the Red, White and Blue fly free over America, those who were lost did not die in vain.

POLAK LEAVES LAND TRUST

To the Editor:

I regret to announce that Marcel Polak, executive director of the Mahoosuc Land Trust, will be leaving his post after Labor Day. Our board regrets his departure, wishes him well and is glad he will remain an active member of the Trust.

He is leaving his part-time position with us for a full-time one concerned with development and conservation in the upper Androscoggin Valley. This relates well to some of the work he did as our director and to our continuing interest in the river.

We knew this move was inevitable; the better he did with us the greater his chances to move on. And he has done well by us. We have benefited from his energy, vision, dedication and skill. He leaves the Trust actively engaged in doing what it was meant to do.

Marcel's new position is Upper Androscoggin Valley field director for the Appalachian Mountain Club. He will be working with groups from Berlin, Gorham, Rangeley and Bethel on joint community supported economic and conservation projects.

Our advertisement for a new part-time director appears elsewhere in the paper.

County GOP to meet

Rick Tyler, recently selected executive director of the Maine Republican Party, will be the featured speaker at the Aug. 22 monthly meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee to be held at the Fryeburg Fairground, beginning at 6 p.m. social hour.

A potluck supper will be served at 7 p.m. and Mr. Tyler will speak following the meal. After the executive director's remarks, there will be a brief meeting of the County Committee. Those attending the supper should bring a main dish, salad or dessert.

Anyone wishing further information should call Ed Jones, Fryeburg Republican Chairman at 935-3132 or Stan Howe, Oxford County Republican Chairman at 824-2291.

From the Bethel Police log:

Booze and BBs keep police busy

On Saturday, Aug. 5 at 1:20 a.m. After being called to the Backstage Restaurant by owner Harry Faulkner, an officer was approached by John Cox III of Bryant Pond, who claimed another man had attempted to force him into his vehicle. When the officer attempted to explain the procedure for filing a misdemeanor report, the complainant "went crazy and began screaming obscenities" at the officer. Cox became combative and upon arrival of a Bethel police officer back-up unit, he was taken into custody and charged with assault and disorderly conduct. A short time later, Janet Cox, also of Bryant Pond was arrested by a Rumford Police Dept. officer who had provided back-up at the restaurant incident. Janet Cox was also charged with OUI.

Wednesday, Aug. 2

At 0:13 a.m. a complainant reported that while he was walking east on the Route 2 overpass he had been shot by either a BB gun or a small caliber gun. The complainant, described as "very intoxicated" refused to have rescue called. The officer cleaned and dressed the wound, which did not appear to be a gunshot wound, but could have come from a fall or contact with a splinter.

At 0:22 a.m. police assisted OCSD at the site of a possible burglary across from Bob's Corner Store in Locke Mills. No sign of a break-in was found, but juveniles might have entered an empty cellar.

At 10:30 a.m. a mountain bike was reported stolen from a lawn on Walker's Mills Road. The bike has a broken shifter and an orange travel bag with a broken zipper.

Thursday, Aug. 3

From 9:15 to 11:40 a.m. several reports of BB gun damage were investigated -- see Briefs.

At 6:12 p.m. Jonathan E. Dubey of Newry was arrested and charged with operating after suspension, possession of a usable amount of marijuana (less than one-quarter ounce) and possession of drug paraphernalia. Dubey was transported to Oxford County Jail and booked pending bail.

Friday, Aug. 4

At 1:08 a.m. Police investigated a report of two women fighting at Bethel Park Apartments. According to the police report both the combatants and witnesses were very intoxicated. Parties involved were all advised to go home.

At 2:30 a.m. police followed up on a child-custody matter resulting from the earlier fight at Bethel Park Apartments.

Saturday, Aug. 5

At 1:52 a.m. a Toyota Corolla was reported stolen from the Backstage Restaurant. The vehicle, which had been used by a Bethel police officer providing back-up to an earlier incident (1:20 a.m.), was recovered undamaged at 9:15 a.m. on the Grover Hill Road.

At 9:19 p.m. police responded to complaints of fireworks being discharged at an Elm Street residence. A subject who admitted discharging the devices was warned and no further complaints were received.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

WORLD WAR II VETERANS

mines to contend with in the Leyte Gulf in the Philippines in 1944.

"We had to sweep mines for the landing during a typhoon. It wasn't easy," he said.

"We came across a couple of Philippines in a shoot-out canoe. They had been blown out to sea," he said.

At the invasion of Mindanao Hathaway got a taste of Japanese kamikaze planes.

"They got pretty thick there. We shot down as many as we could. I saw a destroyer get it now I can't," he said.

He saw another kamikaze strike the cruiser Nashville, "ripping it open."

Hathaway said the [illegible] thick it looked like hail falling on the water," Hathaway said.

He said one crewman was hit in the back, while another had his helmet dented. Fortunately, no one was killed.

Hathaway said his ship, being relatively small, didn't draw as much attention from the Japanese as the larger ships.

The Sage later went on to Okinawa, and more kamikazes. And the minesweeper was not long gone.

"A crewman on deck saw the ship ahead of us strike a mine. It looked like it was lifted out of the water. Some of the crew were rescued, but some were killed," he said.

Hathaway said that when the Sage came back through the area on another minesweeping pass, they could see oil on the water where the ship had sunk.

"It gives you kind of an uncomfortable feeling," he said.

He said that during the operation, cruisers and battleships, located farther out by sea, were firing right over the Sage.

"They were softening up the beach. It lasted an hour. When the shells would go over, it sounded like thunder cracking. After an hour of that, you ended up with a good headache," Hathaway said.

After Okinawa, he was eventually transferred to a naval base on Guam, where he stayed until the end of the war.

He said he doesn't have a clear memory of getting the news the war was over.

"We didn't get a lot of news where we were. I remember being glad we'd be going home soon," he said.

From then until his discharge in March of 1946, Hathaway helped with cleanup from the war.

"We'd take all the PT boats and burn them, since they were made of wood. They had to use for them anymore."

Keeping the ammunition coming

Emerson Clough of West Bethel was drafted in February of 1941. He was among the second group of draftees to leave Bethel.

Clough, a sergeant, spent much of the war in Europe, saying that ammunition got to the 105 Howitzer guns which were positioned behind infantry troops. He first saw action against the Germans in North Africa.

He said supply convoys traveling across the African desert were an easy target for German planes.

"There was no place to hide. The planes would come over and strafe. So the trucks would scatter out into the desert, so they wouldn't be in a straight line," he said. "We'd get out and lie on the ground, to get away from the ammunition in the trucks."

Clough was in Normandy, France, too.

Landing six days after the initial invasion on June 6, 1944, he made ammunition runs as the American troops tried to battle up the German forces.

He remembered that on one occasion he had headed back after a delivery, when the wind caused a terrible mistake.

The artillery had shot colored smoke shells to mark where the planes should drop bombs. But the wind blew the smoke back over the American infantry lines, and they dropped the bombs short," he said. "We lost some men."

Clough said that as the Germans retreated, the French citizens came out to celebrate.

"They were all along the sidewalk. They were happy they could go out and do what they wanted to without being shot at, killed, or held in a room and threatened," he said.

"It seemed like I got more kisses that day than I've got the rest of my life," he said.

He said that one enthusiastic Frenchman was tossing around green apples as gifts for the Americans.

"He hit me in the eye with one. He was pretty sorry about it," Clough said.

He then spent some time in Belgium, and from there went on to Germany.

"We waited for the Russians to come and take Berlin," he said.

Meanwhile, they had to be on the lookout for 10- to 12-year-old German boys.

They could be more dangerous than the soldiers. You wouldn't know if they had a hand grenade in their pocket. We picked up a lot of them," he said.

After the Russians took Berlin, Clough was sent home, and was discharged in August of 1945.

Although he said he lost some army friends during the war, he preferred not to discuss them.

"It's nice to know you stood up for your country. I went through a lot I don't want to talk about, and I hope I don't have to go through it again. And I hope nobody else has to."

Many more stories

Not all the stories have been told, and because of both modesty and the private nature of many of the memories, many never will.

It should at least be pointed out that there were many other local servicemen and women who did their part in the winning of the war. Some of them never came back, such as Ensign Stanley Allen, who became the first area casualty when he went down with the U.S.S. Oklahoma at Pearl Harbor.

All of them will long be remembered by the generations that followed, and will follow, for their contribution.

Homefront greets the news

Cathryn Lovejoy of West Bethel has a clear memory of the day the war ended. She was in Kittery with her mother, Fannie Cummings.

"We were staying in a little roadside cabin while we were visiting my father, who was working at the Portsmouth Shipyard," she said.

"It's hard to describe the joy and relief everyone felt. It was like having cancer, and then being told you were free of it.

"Everyone went to the center of town. We didn't know there were that many people in town. The streets were just wall to wall people. They were all cheering, hugging, kissing, and crying."

Lovejoy said her mother's diary notes the next two days were declared "days of rest" by the government (see front page story from 1945).

In Bethel "everyone went to church. Some 12 year-old kids climbed up and rang the Congregational Church bell with rocks," Lovejoy said.

School budget

director T.L. McGee moved to eliminate all athletics as a cost-saving measure.

Fran Head of Bethel reacted strongly: "That's absurd," she said.

Marcel Polak agreed with McGee.

"Welcome to the theatre of the absurd," he said. "I've heard people say we could get volunteers to do it (coach). Let's see what happens."

That brought a protest from Telstar athletic director/assistant principal Carroll Higgins.

"How can you get people to volunteer when you can't even get somebody to do it when they're paid? How many people will come in and spend three or four hours a day, and then be out until midnight? And the State Principals' Association requires that coaches be certified," he said.

Higgins also said many students have told him sports were the only reason they stayed in school.

The motion was defeated.

Administrator job saved

Although the administrators had offered up one of their own positions on their cut list, they left it up to the board to choose which one would go.

After one attempt to eliminate the middle school principal's position failed, the board turned to Higgins' job.

Hand defended keeping the position.

"The administrators allow teachers to teach by handling the discipline," she said. High school discipline comprises a large portion of Higgins' responsibilities.

Greenwood director Brad Payne agreed.

"I don't think most people in the community have a clue as to what these people do. I'm sorry if people in the community don't agree," he said.

During the budget hearing and meeting, a number of people had suggested cutting administrators.

Gilbert said she thought the board should respect that sentiment and make the cut.

But Andover director Sid Pew put together other cuts that would spare Higgins' position. They included $20,000 to upgrade the Telstar library and $10,000 for computer technician services.

Pew's package passed easily, with Gilbert and Bethel directors Wende Gray and Merton Brown opposed.

Request to reopen negotiations

The board also approved sending a letter to all district bargaining units requesting that they reopen negotiations. Employees had received between a 3 and 5 percent increase in their pay package for the next school year.

Gill

He has since pleaded guilty to one passport charge, and a second has been dropped. He is also appealing to have the first charge dismissed (in which case his guilty plea would be withdrawn).

In state court, Gill faces 16 misdemeanor counts of unlawful practice of psychology and a single felony count of theft by deception. He has pleaded innocent to those charges and trial is expected sometime in the fall.

Gill was employed by the local health center from March to November of 1994.

His connection with the health center ended when administrators there were unable to verify that he was licensed to practive psychology. During the same period Gill also maintained a private practice in Fryeburg.

Bethel planners must now interpret terms of new sign ordinance

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Is a canopy "a building," "a structure," or neither?

The Bethel Planning Board is expected to take up the matter tonight.

The term "canopy" is used in the recently revised sign ordinance, but the word is not defined. This is now causing some confusion, according to code enforcement officer Norm Putnam.

It's not just a matter of semantics. The owners of Big Bob's want to put up two signs for their new Subway: the first stacked with the three other, 32-square-foot signs by the road; the second (a 12-square-foot sign) on the canopy over the gas pumps.

If the canopy is considered to be a building, or part of a building, then the second sign can go there without a variance.

But if the Planning Board agrees to this interpretation, then the similar canopy planned for the renovated Big Apple must also be considered a building -- and would have to be set back 30 feet from the road unless the Planning Board grants a variance.

"We expected to run into some things like this," Putnam said of the definition dilemma. "It's just something the board will have to work through as we move from the old ordinance to the new one."

Tonight's meeting will be begin at 7 p.m. in the Town Office meeting room.

Lecture on Annie Gould and the Boxer Rebellion

A reception will be held on Aug. 20 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House in honor of Bethel's martyr in China's 1900 Boxer Rebellion. Those attending should gather at Bethel Riverside Cemetery in front of the marker to Annie Gould at 2 p.m. Following a few remarks, everyone will go to the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room for a lecture by Professor Craig Dietrich of the University of Southern Maine, who will speak on China, the Boxer Rebellion and Annie Gould.

Professor Dietrich is a graduate of the University of Chicago and holds a Ph.D in Chinese history from that institution.

The lecture and reception are free of charge and open to anyone.

SUMMER AIR QUALITY: It can be detrimental to your health.

My grandfather suffers from emphysema; however, he is an avid walker and refuses to stay indoors during hot and humid weather. We live in the city, and even I sometimes find it hard to breathe in the heat. Isn't muggy air bad for his condition? Should he avoid being outdoors?

Along with warm weather, the summertime brings with it poor air quality. You are correct in assuming that hot, muggy air can exacerbate your grandfather's condition. Emphysema, a type of destruction of lung tissue usually caused by smoking, is characterized by the obstruction of air flow to the lungs and impairment of oxygen transfer into the blood, both of which cause labored breathing. Heat and humidity increase the work of breathing for patients with lung disease, and air pollution can worsen air flow obstruction. For your grandfather and others like him who suffer from respiratory ailments, the long, hot days of summer are days that should be spent indoors.

Poor air quality typically occurs during the months of July, August and September, when air temperature and humidity are highest. Under normal circumstances, noxious gases and fumes rise and dissipate into the atmosphere, but during summer months, the air is more dense and doesn't rise as quickly. The best air quality during these months occurs in the early morning and evening -- the usually cooler air of the nighttime tends to allow the fumes of the day to rise.

Unhealthy air, commonly referred to as smog, is made up of an unusually high concentration of substances or pollutants, including ozone, sulfur dioxide and a host of other toxins that are released daily into the atmosphere by cars, industrial plants, chemical manufacturers and incinerators. Although smog is commonly thought of as being a city problem, wind currents carry smog hundreds of miles away to pollute rural areas.

Ozone, a noxious form of oxygen found in the atmosphere, especially after a thunderstorm, irritates the membranes of the lungs and can cause coughing, chest pain and a general feeling of malaise. In addition to its effects on healthy lungs, ozone can also aggravate pulmonary conditions, such as emphysema and asthma. Another pollutant, carbon monoxide, is emitted from motor vehicle engines and cigarettes. Carbon monoxide disrupts the delivery of oxygen to the body by binding to red blood cells -- it is easier for carbon monoxide to bind to these cells than it is for oxygen to do the same. Red blood cells are meant to carry oxygen throughout the body, and when these cells carry carbon monoxide instead, the body's supply of oxygen is depleted.

"Even without the pollutants in the air, the heat and humidity make it difficult for those with respiratory problems to breathe during the summer," says Helen Hollingsworth, MD, director of Asthma and Allergy Services at Boston University Medical Center Hospital. People who don't suffer from specific pulmonary problems may also experience irritation of the nasal passages and eyes, and a scratchy throat from breathing air with high levels of pollution.

Though summertime air quality can be poor, it doesn't mean that people should never venture outdoors. In fact, "it would take a 100-fold increase in the average amount of pollutants in the air to be lethal," Hollingsworth says. However, people with respiratory problems should take real precautions, especially in locations where smog is a problem. These precautions include keeping windows closed at home and using air conditioning, if possible.

Also, those with respiratory problems should make a habit of checking the air-quality readings each morning in the newspaper or during the weather report on radio and television news. "Not all summer days are unhealthy, there are good days and bad days," Hollingsworth says.

This "Matters of Health" was written in cooperation with Helen Hollingsworth, MD, director of Asthma and Allergy Services at Boston University Medical Center Hospital.

The weather held out for the Olde Home Days events held over the weekend. The Ellis River Riders entertained many with Beano and Casino Games in the town hall Friday evening. The Friday night crowd also enjoyed a band concert on the common. Saturday's attendance seemed larger than usual, the parade was the largest ever with eight float entries -- a great job by all that participated. The float category winners were presented trophies and cash -- "The Grapes of Wrath" entry by the Percival, Kerchner and Gribbin families won first place and $100; "T'was the Night Before Christmas" entry by the Ellis River Riders won second place and $50; "Mother Goose" by the Mills family won third place and $25. Walkers in the parade winning trophies were first -- Jenny Swain; second -- Lucie Swain; third -- Greg Swain. Trophies in the Participant category were presented to first place -- Andover Public Library float; second place -- "Mother Goose" float by the Farrington families; and third place -- Leigh Breidenbach. Rosettes were awarded for first place -- "The Homestead" float by Randell Poor Ellis; second place -- "Lonesome Dove" by Connie Jack and Ron York; third place -- "Teddy Bears Picnic" float by the Akers and Cummings families.

The first place float winners, the Percival, Kerchner and Gribbin clans, generously donated their $100 cash prize winnings to the Andover Library Association.

The raffle buttons sold out early, there were over 40 prizes donated this year. Many thanks to the prize donors and raffle participants. This year's prizes and winners follow: Angela Cuff -- electronic basketball game from Dyer's Electronics; Judy Willett -- moose by Knotty Toys; Rob Roy -- $10 gift certificate at Shop 'n Save; Steve Richard -- Olde Home Days T-shirt; Jessica Webber -- 16 inch pizza at Mill's Market; Nancy Wardwell -- two meals at All Seasons Cafe; Elaine Richard -- seven yards of gravel from Richard Pelletier; Wendy Warren -- covered bridge framed print; Eddie Waite -- $25 cash from Matron Services; Angela Cuff -- meals for four at Addie's Place; Joy Sumner -- hanging lamp donated by the Greaneys; Gisele Gurney -- 16 inch pizza at Dave's Store; Suzanne Richardson -- dried arrangement by Everlasting Acres; Louis Hall -- "Rag Time on my Hands" CD by Ross Swain; Roberta Learned -- 14 yards of gravel from Swasey Excavation; Norman Davis -- $50 gift certificate from Brooks Bros. Inc.; Ruth Ring -- one day ski pass at Sunday River Ski Area; Sue Field -- $20 cash from the Wardwell's Eatery; Laurie Hagen -- $25 gift certificate from Puiia Home Center; Danny Wing -- $25 cash from Smith Enterprises; Dee Fields -- hand-woven basket by Sharon Hutchins; Lois Farrington -- seven yards of gravel from Emerson Excavation; Wendy Warren -- "Rag Time on my Hands" cassette by Ross Swain; Ed Roach -- gift certificate from Andover Automotive; Debbie Averill -- one night's stay at Andover Arms Bed and Breakfast; Marjorie Jodrey -- trivets donated from Wardwell's; Lindsay Haynes -- gift certificate from Visible Changes; Amanda of Bethel -- $25 cash from Matron Services; Debbie Ryan -- skis donated by Akers Ski; Ray Littlehale -- $20 cash donated by Swift Sure Communications; Roberta Hopler -- $25 gift certificate from Western Maine Supply; Marion Abbott -- AM/FM radio from Stanley's Furniture; Charlie Mills -- dinner for four at the Balsams Resort; Sky Chandler -- $25 cash from Smith Enterprises; Renee Gagne -- decorated cookie jar by Joyce Frazier; Kevin Morton -- framed print from Bouffard's Furniture; Ronnie Pelletier -- T-shirts from Upton Trading Post; Wade Rainey -- two T-shirts from Cormiers Country Corner Store; $25 cash donated by Marston Loggins was awarded to an unknown winner; and an unknown winner collected a certificate for an Upton Trading Post t-shirt. Many thanks to the generous donors and the button buyers.

The Class of 1997 raffled a Summer Fun Basket filled with prizes and gift certificates; the lucky winner was May Maddix.

Additional contest results will be published in next week's column. Please call me at 392-4031 if you have any information you wish to be included.

The Andover Historical Society's 44th Annual Flower Show and open house was a great success. Winners of the flower show categories were as follows: Mother Goose (children through 12 years) -- first, Brenna Gribbin; second, Jenna Poor; third, Riley Gilbert, Colton Godwin, Jeremy Moren, Lindsey Geloran and Erica Moren. My Favorite Book (teens) -- first, Aimee Dolloff; second, Brigid Gribbin; third, Beth Kerchner and Chad Kerchner; honorable mention, Kristia Geloran and Angela Percival. The Joy of Cooking arrangement -- first, Ellie LeComte; second, Shirley Geloran; third, Penny Poor; honorable mention, Fran Kerchner. The Golden Cup arrangement -- first, Jane Rich; second, Jennifer Percival; third, Penny Percival; honorable mention, Ellie LeComte. We Took to the Woods arrangement -- first, Ellie LeComte; second, Penny Percival; third, Lorraine Milligan; honorable mention, Fran Kerchner. Farmer's Almanac vegetable arrangement -- first, Randy Ellis; second, Ellie LeComte; third, Diane Cutting; honorable mention, Dottie Lang. Glimpses of Olde Andover arrangement -- first, Diane Cutting; second, Pat Lewit; third, Karen McKay; honorable mention, Jane Rich. House of Seven Gables houseplants -- first, Rhonda Jodrey; second, Florence Hall; third Dottie Lang; honorable mention, Karen McKay and Ellie LeComte. Arsenic and Old Lace arrangement -- first, Ellie LeComte; second Pat Lewit; third, Lisa Kerchner. Legend of Mollockett single specimen -- first, Dave Percival; second, Diane Cutting; third, Lionel Roy; honorable mention, Minnie Akers. The Judges Award was presented to Ellie LeComte and the Best of Show was presented to Diane Cutting for a trellis decorated with herbs and flowers.

A winning arm wrestler lost a second place rosette award at Dave's Store. Please come to the store to claim your ribbon.

Lynn Thurston of Gorham was a weekend guest of the McKay family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerchner and family of Wellesley, Mass. were in town staying at their Main Street home. They entertained weekend guests Joyce and Stuart Birch of Washington, Vt.

Julie and Tim Gribbin and daughters Brigid and Brenna of Solesburg, Penn. have been enjoying a visit with Mrs. Minnie Akers.

East Stoneham

by
Eleanor Nelson

Carole Nelson, Danielle Bernard, Frank and Annette Farrington, Gerry Parise and Lila Farrington all joined relatives in Rochester, N.H., Saturday for a family reunion where there were 70 family members. There was a buffet luncheon with plenty of food, games, fun and visiting.

On July 30, I attended Grace Fellowship Church services with Carole and Danielle where Lloyd Waterhouse was preaching and enjoyed the day immensely, and I even met a neighbor from town I had never met before.

The East Stoneham Church thrift sales and bake sales continue to do good on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are some good bargains and I think this Saturday there will be a $1-a-bag sales in the Thrift Shop.

Aug. 20 is the next "East Stoneham Church 100th Celebration" meeting and the 17th is the turkey supper. Sometimes it's hard to keep up with everything, isn't it. East Stoneham Church supper is Aug. 3 and North Lovell Grange's annual chicken barbecue is on Aug. 5. On Aug. 20th, "Northeast Winds," of the summer series, will be playing at the Brick Church in Lovell Village. These are all good things to attend if you can figure your time to do so.

Carole Nelson and Danielle Bernard and Kitty Nelson and Molly and Matthew have gone to Cranberry Island for a few days to Kitty's home on the island.

On Sunday, July 30, an 80th birthday party was given by Loretta Andrews and family for her father, Everett Sawyer of Fryeburg, along with his wife Althea's and her twin sister Alta's birthdays. A barbecue, etc., was enjoyed by the whole family.

On July 27th, the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met for their regular meeting with President Leslie Dean presiding. There were eight members present. Wilda Wallace gave a report on the Maine Department D.U.V. Convention, held in Brunswick, which was interesting. Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were read and accepted.

Frances Grant was presented with a D.U.V. 50-year membership pin. A get-well card was signed by members present for Gladys Kilgore, who is still in Norway Convalescent Center. Refreshments were served by Joyce Gouin and Leslie Dean. The next meeting will be a cookout on Aug. 23, with meeting afterward. This meeting was a roll call and members responded with a favorite poem or reading.

Next meeting, members are reminded to bring any old flags to be retired which will be taken care of properly.

Our condolences go out to Lucy Rogers on the death of her father, Howard Rogers of Massachsuetts and Lovell, also to Betty Maxfield on the death of her husband, Harold Maxfield.

Last evening, I enjoyed listening to the Parisiens at Moore Park in South Paris. What nice music they give out!

Upton

by
Arline Bernier

Margaret Walker of Norway, her granddaughter Michelle Walker of Bethel and Gwen Currier of Oxford visited Sunday at Heritage Farm. Other guests were Duane and Joan Waite of Andover.

Louis and Lorraine Begin spent time at their camp on Backstreet to clean brush on the road front and the yard around the camp.

Tex Fogwill arrived from Florida to execute the annual Tex and Margaret reunion and spend the rest of the summer in Maine.

John and Nancy Haines, daughter Beth and two new family members, Mikey and Joey, enjoyed a day's relaxation in Upton.

The meeting at the school house was not a general discussion with taxpayers allowed to question the horrific increase in most taxes, but was rather an investigation by the county commissioners brought by a complaint to them by Edward Brennan. The town officials presented their side and Brennan presented his. Then they closed the meeting to check the property in question.

David Michel Baylies, the great-great-grandson of Annah and Edwin Perham, was christened on the shore of Lake Christopher on Saturday, July 22. The service was conducted by the Rev. Holly Baylies, minister at the Unitarian-Universalist Church. The godparents are Kenneth and Jeanne Donovan. David is the son of Peter and Susan Baylies of North Andover, Mass., and the grandson of Evangeline Baylies and the late John Baylies. Also in attendance were: his brother, John Victor; cousin, John B. Donovan; Charles, Nancy, Tim and Ryan Baylies; and friend Barbara Baldwin.

Judith Grover Tent 17 will meet on Monday, Aug. 14, for a regular meeting. Helvi and Michelle Cary are on refreshments.

The Historical Society will hold its annual picnic at Evelyn Bean's on Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Beatrice Farnum returned home Sunday after a week visiting Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover in Corning, N.Y.

Joseph and Maggie Hoyt are spending a week visiting their father, Jim Hoyt, and grandparents, Ken and Alice Hoyt. Shawn Crockett visited his grandparents, Ken and Alice Hoyt, on Wednesday.

Good luck to Shane Billings as he leaves for college. We will miss his column.

Congratulations to Stan Farrar -- that was a good write-up on his baseball career.

Sympathy is extended to Don Reavis and his sister and family on the death of his mother, Helen Reavis.

Basil Sequin gave the Historical Society a book on many crafts. Curator Larry Billings gave a book on quilts. The society has quite a number of quilts now. Other donations were: a book on music from the curator, a newspaper article from President Evelyn Bean, and a book on antiques from Kathleen Bean. Kenneth Buck gave a scrapbook and a book that belonged to Mildred Poulin. Ruth Cox and Elaine Roberts watched the museum recently. The society thanks all who have watched the museum and those who have visited, also those who donated things to sell. The museum preserves the artifacts of the past for everyone to enjoy. The Historical Society is an active group interested in this area's historical and cultural background.

Bethel

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merrill were weekend guests of Phyllis Dickey. While there they attended the Dickey-Wheaton reunion at the home of Gail and Bill Brooke, North Whitefield.

Wayne Davis, Green River, Wy., son of Robert and Pauline Davis of Bethel, recently was promoted to supervisor of production at Texas Gulf, Inc., a trona mine in western Wyoming.

East Bethel

by
Nancy Mercer

Polly Smith picked up her sister, Freda Edmonds, in South Paris on July 30 and they went to the Robertson reunion. Afterward, they attended the church service at the East Bethel Church.

Stan Wilson's son, Alan of Portland, visited with Stan and Esther Wilson on July 22-30. He helped with mechanical repairs for the week.

Jarrod Crockett, son of Butch Crockett, spent two weeks in Washington, D.C., returning on July 28. He attended political science classes at American University, which included 70 hours of classroom work and tours of the city. He enjoyed it all.

Chet Kimball, on Aug. 3, came home from the hospital, where he had hernia surgery.

Geneva Pelletier of Manchester, N.H., stayed with Faye Kimball from July 24-Aug. 5.

The East Bethel Church will hold its last summer service on Aug. 27, 2 p.m., with the Rev. Norman Rust conducting the service.

Alder River Grange will hold regular meeting Aug. 10 at the hall at 7:30 p.m.

"EVER WATCHING, EVER MOTIONLESS" in a Greenwood garden.

North Woodstock

by Susan Silver

Hello to all of Shane Billings' faithful readers. If anyone in the community has news they would like to share, please call me at 665-2763.

Joelle Silver has completed her summer swimming lessons at the Greenwood town beach. They had a good turnout of children this year.

I would like to comment on Mrs. Lois Gammon's and Mrs. Robert Davis' flower gardens. Even with the lack of rain, they look really gorgeous.

Welcome back to Herschel and Betty Abbott from a trip to Massachusetts. Herschel has done a lot of work outside this summer around his home and it looks really wonderful.

Sue, Joelle and Errol Silver were guests of Peggy Silver and Trudy Morse at Trudy's camp on North Pond in North Norway on Tuesday. It was very enjoyable because it was such a hot day.

The hummingbirds are back at my feeder with a vengeance, I have had to refill my feeder several times, as there are three that try to get the food at once.

It should be a good year for blackberries. I have noticed a lot of green ones on my walks through the woods.

The house that belonged to Butch and Roseanne Broomhall, across from Lee and Emma Billings', is off its foundation and on skids waiting to be moved. It sure is a sight to see.

Norma Davis reports they had a very successful hymn sing on Friday evening with 38 in attendance. They had some special guests, all six children of Marjorie and Phon Brown who lived in Pinhook where Gertrude Coffin now lives.

Don't forget there is a hymn sing every last Friday of the month at 7 p.m. in the Pinhook Community Building. Everyone is invited to attend.

Mandy McInnis is a lifeguard at the girl scout camp on Worthly Pond in Peru, for the summer.

Michelle McInnis is at a field hockey camp this week at the U of Southern Maine in Gorham. Mandy and Michelle are the daughters of Percy and Robyn McInnis.

Greenwood City

by
Colista Morgan

What is new in Greenwood City? Mr. S.C. He has been here for some time just waiting to be introduced. So I'm sending a picture to share with you. Mr. S.C. one day grew in one of our gardens. He is quite different from the winter one which appeared on a tall cliff last winter, but disappeared in the spring. This one shows an interest in gardening. He is there day after day, ever watching, ever motionless. He wears his garden clothes, he is six feet tall and keeps his hoe with him always. He is visible from the Norway Road.

As you travel the road, Joe-Pye-Weed and goldenrod are beginning to be noticeable. The wild morning glory or hedge-weed with delicate pink bells clambers over old fence posts or around all that is near at hand.

I often see the blue heron standing in a golden bowl of sunshine banded in blue and filled with the softest rainbow hue of pickerel weeds. There is nothing wildly thrilling or exciting but there is a taste of simple things. "Oh, for a day in the country/Out where the air's fresh and clean,/Out where the fields touch the blue skies,/Out where the scenes are serene!"

You can see the mountain tops and soft clouds above the forest nooks while shadows play the pond.

New swallows are now playing; wheeling like scraps of paper caught in the wind.

So with a few perfect summer days the month comes to a close, and I'm reminded, too, that another year has passed, for in another week I'll be a year older and very grateful that I have been able to enjoy it.

Rena Curtis and family attended the Wyman Reunion at Cathedral Pines on July 30. There were 30 there.

Robert Holt, his daughter Jennett and a friend were at his parents on Sunday. David, Sally and Mary and I were also there. Ann came late afternoon. She had just returned with three friends from a week's vacation to Pennsylvania and other states near. They visited the Amish Country and many other places of interest.

I was happy to see one of my pupils who went to school to me the first year that I taught. We met while shopping.

My apologies to Jake Swick for not getting in a very important news item last week. Jake is the son of Debbie and Owen Brown and the late John Swick. Jake is spending the summer with his recently-bereaved aunt in New Jersey and was certainly in the right place at the right time. A couple weeks ago he heard shouts and cries in the street and when he went to see what was the matter he found a very upset elderly woman who didn't speak English with a young boy with facial bleeding. At first Jake thought he was having a nosebleed but quickly realized the blood was coming from his mouth where the woman had used her fingers trying to dislodge something he was choking on. Jake quickly turned him around and using the Heimlich maneuver got a large gumball to pop out of the child's windpipe. It isn't every day a person gets a chance to save a life, to say nothing of having to go so far away to do it. Everyone is very proud of him. Way to go, Jake!

Tri-Town Ambulance and Rescue Service is having a public supper on Saturday, Aug. 12, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the ambulance barn in West Paris.

Ralph Mills returned to his home in Colchester, Vt., Sunday evening after spending the weekend here. He attended the reunion of the descendants of Samuel and Frances (Pembroke) Mills' family, who lived during the 1600s, and more recently of the Cyrus Sr. and Cyrus Jr. branch. Cyrus Sr. lived from 1790-1855 and had 13 children, only one dying in infancy, which was remarkable for those days. Cyrus Jr. lived from 1825-1920 and almost equaled his father in that he had 10 children, one dying as an infant. The reunion was held at the Moses Mason House on Saturday. On Sunday afternoon, Ralph and I visited his aunts and uncle, Mary Mills and Marolyn and Don Mills at their home in North Norway. I was unable to attend the reunion, as I had errands to run in Rumford and Norway, and from one o'clock on I had to dispatch for Tri-Town Ambulance. Ralph thought since I had to be in Rumford anyhow I could pick up some muffins for breakfast at the deli. He said to get bran and blueberry. Well, I did, I thought. Ralph did mention next day that it was a little disconcerting to bite into a blueberry muffin and get a mouthful of chocolate chips. I'm with him. Chocolate chip cookies I can enjoy but chocolate chip muffins--?

I got a letter recently from my daughter, Marcia Smith, and she said she really wondered what was going on since she got back home. She said the electric teakettle had gone kaput, the toaster's spring sprung, the fan fell breaking two blades, the TV's inside antenna snapped off in Jon's hand, a pipe under the kitchen sink started leaking and the car's muffler had a hole in it and had to be replaced. And I thought I had it bad when my glasses frame broke apart and had to be replaced.

Pastor Bruce and Debbie Swan, Stacy and Joshua from Springfield, Maine, spent a week recently at the Swan's cottage at South Pond, and visiting friends and resting.

Val and Caroline Greene from Massachusetts are spending a few days at their home on Howe Hill.

On the 21st and 22nd of July, Harry and Margie Swan with granddaughter Rebecca Swan, camped with the Fireside Friends' Good Sam group at the Saco River Campground, North Conway, N.H.

Karlene Bachelder and yours truly were in Unity at the Benjamin Berry Unit No. 50 on Saturday, July 29, for a family gathering of the relatives of Julia Goodwin (Karlene's mother). There were about 30 people there, including children. A potluck lunch, sweet corn, some lively conservation and a few games were enjoyed.

Services were held Sunday, July 30, 9 a.m., at the Newry Community Church with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "The good and the bad," from Scriptures Luke, II:4. "And forgive us our sins for also we forgive everyone that is indebted to us, and lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil."

Sunday, July 30, the Bethel and Newry firefighters and their families and friends went to Jeff and Sheila Fleet's country home for a "Pig Roast." About 100 grown-ups and kids enjoyed a great feast of pork roast (cooked in the hole in the ground all night). There was also a great variety of casseroles, salads, sweet corn and desserts. There was plenty of room for the grown-ups and kids to play baseball, rackets, etc. I saw a young man juggling balls in a very experienced way -- I didn't get his name. It was a great day. See you next year?

Shirley Keith hosted a "Mary Kay Face to Face" demonstration, by Karen Gilbert, consultant. Olive Anderson and I were there to be made over! Ha! Anyone who wishes to know more about Mary Kay can contact Karen at 409 East Bethel Road, Bethel, or call 874-2299.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle will meet at Freda Robertson's residence on Aug. 14 at 12:30 p.m.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Doris Parent, Irene Hadfield and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the triples and singles. Of the "Righties," Irene was high on both the singles and triples. Betsy had three spares, Karlene and Irene had two spares each, Gil had one strike and one spare, and Eleanor had one spare.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bachelder and family from Litchfield came to see Ras and Karlene on Saturday, July 29. On July 31st, Harriette Townsend from Stratton and niece Marcia Mattor from Farmington were at the Bachelders. (Harriette is Ras' aunt and Marcia a niece>)

Donald Tetley and wife Cora were visitors of brother Norman and Louise over the weekend of Sunday, July 30, to Tuesday. They are from Rhode Island.

Howdy, folks. What a cool, beautiful morning it was this last day of July, but how soon it changed to hot and drove me from the garden, as I can't stand the hot sun now that I'm one of those senior citizens.

In the afternoon, Bertha Benoit came down to get the last of the radishes that I had this year. I planted them between my cucumber hills as usual, and they were real good this year, not much of any wormy ones.

We had early company on Tuesday morning, as Peggy's granddaughter, Justine Still and her husband Mike, wanted to take us to a restaurant for breakfast. We were ready to go, so they followed us to Chef's Table, where we all had their special, of French toast and syrup, plus Mike ordered a serving of home fries. We enjoyed eating out as we rarely do that.

After leaving there, Mike and Justine headed for L.L. Bean's in Freeport and then on to Portland to return their rented car and catch their flight back to Georgia. Since Mike works for Delta Airlines, he gets a lot of free flying, but they have to be on standby so are never sure exactly what time their flight will be. We haven't heard from them since then, but, as they say, no news is good news and I'm sure they're back in Georgia and are busy.

In the p.m., Peggy started painting in our back stairway and I started to cut strips of the old siding that had to be taken off when they repaired our mobile home from the pine tree damage. The strips of siding I then installed on the sides of the shelter over our oil tank.

We were surprised Wednesday forenoon when Loretta Merrill called on us. She had an appointment to have some work done on her car in Lewiston so she came early and called on us. She stayed for dinner and then continued on to Lewiston.

The field below our mobile home is now looking better. Nephew David Yates mowed it with the tractor and bush hog on Wednesday evening.

Thursday morning, we went down street quite early and did what errands we had and got our weekly supply of groceries. In the afternoon, Peggy mowed the lawns again. Her son-in-law is so busy repairing his camp that he doesn't mow the lawns for us anymore, so the job falls on Peggy.

Friday forenoon, I cut our first batch of broccoli and we prepared it for the freezer. I then doctored my sweet corn to head off those pesky ear worms. I find that a little mineral oil in the silks makes a big difference in the corn.

Friday afternoon, we went to South Paris to visit Lawrence Merrill and his brother. Lawrence hasn't been feeling very well.

Not much got done in the garden on Saturday as we had several small showers. In the evening, Peggy and our sister, Laura Hutchins from East Andover, attended the dance at Locke Mills.

Sister Laura's granddaughter, Mandy Cobb, isn't staying with her now. She will soon be flying to Germany to spend time with the James Cobb family.

Yesterday started with a beautiful morning and we went to the Ames store in Rumford, where we joined sister Laura and her dog Daisy May for a trip to Rangeley to visit Loretta and Emerson Merrill, also Alfred Merrill. They have been remodeling the camp that they bought there and were doing more work on it yesterday. We took along a picnic lunch, and we all ate together at the camp. By the way, the camp is located in Russell Cove. It's very nice and I wouldn't mind spending some time there. We saw a female moose on our way home. Her summer coat was brown and slick.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Aug. 12, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. It's good music to give you a good time dancing.

Make plans now to attend the Musical Dance at the Locke Mills American Legion Hall on Aug. 22. Five dollars gets you a good supper, several variety acts and dancing until at least 10 p.m. Come join the fun, bring the whole family plus all of your aunts, uncles and cousins. You'll be glad that you did. Proceeds from this supper will benefit the improvements to Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond.

WOMEN'S TRADE SHOW

Companies with a product or service directed to small business are invited to exhibit at the Business-to-Business Trade Show sponsored by the Women's Business Development Corporation (WBDC). The trade show is scheduled for Oct. 25 at the Augusta Civic Center. The cost of a booth at this one-day show is $125 with special rates available to members of WBDC.

The trade show continues to grow in size and reputation. Last year was the largest show yet with more than 70 booths.

The trade show will be open to the public at no charge. It will be held in the civic center's main auditorium.

Along with the trade show, the WBDC will also host its Eighth Annual Women Business Owners Conference. This year's theme is "Communications: The Lifeblood of Your Business." Approximately 35 workshops geared to women business owners are planned.

According to the 1987 Economic Census, women-owned businesses in Maine account for 27 percent of all firms and 16 percent of all sales and receipts. Between 1982 and 1987, the number of women-owned businesses rose 58 percent while their total receipts nearly triple. As of 1987, women-owned businesses accounted for roughly 30 percent of all U.S. businesses and about 14 percent of total U.S. business receipts. Recent IRS data shows that women-owned sole proprietorships grew 7 percent annually from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4.9 million in 1989, a growth rate of 96 percent. They outpaced all other such firms. Revenues from women-owned firms increase 145 percent while growth in revenues for all such firms grew 68 percent.

Last year the conference and trade show attracted more than 400 participants. This year more than 500 women entrepreneurs, government officials, business assistance agencies and members of the Maine business community are expected. Special advertising rates are available for exhibitors in the conference handbook.

For further information, please call Great Gatherings at 622-5330 or WBDC at 947-5990.

Save for retirement with U.S. Savings Bonds.

They'll mature before you do.

You refuse to grow old "gracefully." Which is why you buy "casual" shoes, not "sensible" shoes.

Why you call it "bringing out those natural highlights," not "hiding the gray."

And why you still haven't started to save for retirement.

Exactly what are you waiting for? The very day you retire and find yourself with no more job and no more paychecks?

Give your retirement savings program a solid foundation by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. They're backed by the full faith and credit of the United States and guaranteed to earn interest.* And they're easy to buy for just a few dollars each payday through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan. Or buy them at your bank.

Plus, the interest earned on U.S. Savings Bonds is exempt from state and local income taxes and can be deferred for federal income tax purposes for up to 30 years.

Ask your banker or your employer about including U.S. Savings Bonds in your retirement savings program. Even if you call it "saving for a rainy day."

SWAINS CELEBRATE 50 YEARS–On Saturday, July 8, a surprise 50th anniversary party was given for Rocky and Bunny Swain by their children, Charlene and Bud Maginnis of Lawrence, Mass., Diane and Jim Todd of West Paris, and Leah and George Desmet of North Andover, Mass. The outdoor party was at the couple's summer cottage in Swanton, Vt., on Lake Champlain. More than 80 family and friends enjoyed the afternoon barbecue. Out-of-town guests were from Canada, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, and South Carolina. The three-tier anniversary cake was made by Doris Walker, friend of the couple. Many beautiful cards and gifts were received.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

Seventeen members and two guests were present at the Greenwood Historical Society building Wednesday evening, Aug. 2, for the regular meeting, with Joan Kimball, president, presiding. A potluck picnic on the lawn preceded the meeting.

Blaine and Margaret Mills were at the open house at the building Aug. 5 in place of Mellen and Jeannette Kimball, and the Kimballs will be there on Aug. 12. Joan Kimball will be there Aug. 19, and Ellsworth and Joyce Hathaway will be there Aug. 26 which will be the last date for this season.

Joan Kimball passed out the newsletters.

At the September meeting, Wednesday evening, Sept. 6, Donald Kimball will show the video of the 99th Inf. Div. in World War II.

SAFE HANGOUTS PICNIC

The Safe Hangouts Committee will host a "family gathering" for everyone who participated in the chem-free activities this summer.

The Aug. 13 picnic will take place at the Stony Brook Campground in Hanover. Festivities will begin at 1 p.m. and go until 4. There will be field games and swimming for everyone.

Rodney Abbott, former SAD44 Chemical Awareness Coordinator will speak at 2:30. His topics will be centering around recent survey results and the roles parents play in their children's choices and activities.

A mailing has been sent to every household of youngsters who have been active in the trips sponsored by the Western Maine Partnership's Safe Hangout Committee.

Postcards should be returned to help facilitate planning.

Those who did not receive cards are asked to call 824-2185 and confirm attendance.

Safe Hangout activities this week include white-water rafting and "back to school" shopping trips to the mall.

WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY PICNIC

The Woodstock Historical Society annual picnic will be held at President Evelyn Bean's home at 5 p.m. on Aug. 12. In case of rain, it will be held at the Historical Society building.

STEVENS GRADUATES

Anthony W. (Tony) Stevens of Dover, N.H., son of Floyd E. and Alicia Stevens of South Woodstock, graduated with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering technology from the University of New Hampshire, Durham, N.H.

Anthony was one of 2,300 graduates and undergraduates to receive their degree on May 20, 1995. He received his associate degree in mechanical engineering technology from Vermont Technical College, Randolph Center, Vt., graduating in May 1993 with honors.

TRIATHLON RESULTS

The Maine State Triathlon Classic took place on July 30. Events include swimming, biking, and running.

The top male finisher and overall winner was Raymond Kusche of Freeport.

Top winners in the men's age categories were: Sho Shimoda, 15 to 19; William Appleby, 20 to 24; Michael Ricci, 25 to 29; Duane Higgins, 30 to 34; George Mongeau, 35 to 39; Thomas Wells, 40 to 49; and Fred Allen, 50 to 89.

Local finishers were Denny Bunn and Garrett Bonnema in the 40 to 49 age category, and Dillon Gillies in the 50 to 89 category.

The top female finisher was Jennifer Samuels of Worcester, Ma.

Top women by age category were: Briah Carey, 15 to 19; Janet McCullough, 25 to 29; Jennifer Ferree, 30 to 34; Deb Merrill, 35 to 39; Rosalyn Randall, 40 to 49; Ginny Peck, 50 to 89. Local women finishers were Catie Dean, 25 to 29; Emily McKey, 30 to 34; Carol Savage, 40 to 49.

The winning mixed relay team was Lynn Smith, Tim Clough, and Scott Brown. The Bethel team of Lois Ruff, Ray Morgan, and Paul Pivin came in seventh.

The top women's relay team was Wendy Youmans, Julie Anderson, and Martha McLean of Bethel. The Bethel team of Becky Cummings, Amy Forbes, and Jolan Ippolito was second.

Rotary Club notes:

The Bethel Rotary Club's 1995-96 officers and directors began their new year as the calendar turned the page to the month of July. They are: Dick Fain, president; Dan Hart, president-elect; Al Barth, vice-president; Nancy Harrison, secretary; John Head, treasurer; George Larson and Bruce Powell, sergeants at arms; Ted Davis, immediate past president; Dr. Kevin Finley, club services director; Barb Testani, community services director; Dewaine Craig, vocational services director; and Linda Varrell, international services director.

The month of July also brings the club's annual participation in the town's Mollyockett Day festivities, including their auction at Telstar High School on Friday evening, July 14, and their food booth and tented picnic area on the Bethel Common on Saturday, July 15. Due to the much appreciated continued support of local businesses and local friends and families, they were once again great successes.

Most of the past month was spent planning and scheduling the Mollyockett Day events; however, the club did enjoy slides and input from the club's Ireland trip participants, highlights from a 16-day trip to New Zealand in a freighter (container ship) from Lynn Mason, and an interesting program from Robin Zinchuk's father, Lou Horvarth, as president of the Maine Council of Atlantic Salmon Federation, an international nonprofit organization.

Upcoming events/business includes distribution of the Family Activities Directory at the end of August, a club fireside chat for new proposed members on Aug. 23, and the formation and meeting of the new services committees for the new Rotary year. Club member Steve Wight has volunteered to chair the club's new committee, "Preserve Planet Earth Committee," as requested by the district governor.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

There were several items of business transacted when the Jackson-Silver Unit, A.L. Auxiliary met on Aug. 3.

It was reported that $75 had been received in memory of Noreen Russo. The Unit will match these funds and use them to purchase some piece of equipment for the new Veterans' Home in South Paris. The president and another member will find out what is needed and would be the most appropriate item to give in Noreen's memory. Another member expressed intentions of making Afghans for the Veterans' Home.

Ada Cummings was elected to fill the office of historian for the remainder of the year.

Members are reminded that the annual family picnic will take place at the Legion Hall on Aug. 17. The Legion and Auxiliary will furnish hot dogs, hamburgers, corn on the cob and watermelon. Donation of a salad or other accompaniment would be welcome. Members may bring others in their family who do not belong to the Legion or Auxiliary. After the picnic, the Post will burn the mortgage on the hall.

The Auxiliary is proud to have helped the Post in being able to do this. Besides helping to pay for the air conditioning and generator for the hall, the Auxiliary also sent over $300 to Oklahoma disaster victims, proceeds of a quilt raffle, the quilt having been made and donated by member Shirley Lowell.

Next month, Sept. 17, the Post will be having a ceremony to properly dispose of flags which have become faded, torn, or soiled. Anyone in the community who has such a flag may turn it in to any Post or Unit member, or bring it on the day of the ceremony to see it properly disposed of.

SUDBURY CANADA DAYS
Dr. Moses Mason House and Grounds
August 11-13

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's name prior to the town's incorporation in 1796. It was so designated since the original grantees from Sudbury, Mass., had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which owned Maine until 1820, rewarded these men with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and the campaign in which they had served. This area was never part of Canada. Sudbury Canada Days honors the town's rich heritage dating from the 18th century.

Tips from the Community Lakes Association

Did you know

For the first time in memory, loons have not nested on Lake Christopher for two consecutive years.

That traditional loon nesting spots are no longer available due to development.

That loons in general are abandoning southern Maine lakes due to development and are moving to more northerly Maine lakes for breeding.

That Steve Wight and others of the Maine Conservation School on Lake Christopher have taken action to arrest this trend by having successfully built and installed an Audubon-designed loon nesting platform on North Pond. Three loons were born on this platform this year.

If you are interested in loons or in other lake issues in the Bethel, Locke Mills, Bryant Pond or Greenwood area, please contact the following: Community Lakes Association, 162 North Main Street, Bryant Pond, ME 04219. Annual dues for membership are $10.

Middle Intervale Meeting House quilt show

A quilt show, sponsored by the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society, will be held on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the meeting house on Middle Intervale Road at 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This ninth annual event will highlight the interior of this historic building, the oldest surviving religious structure in Bethel, dating from 1816.

All types of quilts, both old and new, are now being accepted for the show. Anyone with a quilt that he or she wishes to be considered for the show is urged to call James Lowe at 824-0107, June Abbott at 836-2301, or Shireen Vincent at 836-2918.

A raffle of a "Spider Web" quilt, stand and pillow is also being held; the drawing will be held on the day of the quilt show.

Tickets are available from various Bethel Historical Society members and will be sold during Sudbury Canada Days (Aug. 12 and 13).

All proceeds will be used to continue the ongoing preservation of the Middle Intervale Meeting House.

BLOOD DONATIONS NEEDED

On Tuesday, Aug. 15, there will be a blood drive at the Lion's Den in Bethel, sponsored by the Bethel VFW Memorial Post 11363, from 1 to 6 p.m.

For the month of July, the American Red Cross has a 200-unit blood collection deficit. Red Cross officials say it is imperative that this 200-unit deficit is made up in order to meet the 300-unit daily need of Maine's 42 hospitals and maintain an adequate blood supply for Maine residents. The American Red Cross especially needs type "0" blood donations; however, all blood types are always needed.

If you are 18 years or older (17 years old with a signed American Red Cross consent form by a parent or legal guardian), weigh 110 pounds, have not donated blood within the last 56 days (8 weeks), and are in good health, you can donate blood. There is no upper age limit for donors, and most medications are acceptable.

LOCAL CHEFS AMONG THE FINALISTS

In the first "Great Taste of Maine Lobster" governor's tasting competition at the Blaine House in Augusta on August 24, Steve Stone (left) of the Bethel Inn plans to prepare a lobster dish "stir-fried with asparagus, garnished with oven-roasted garlic potato, topped with a Guefrette potato in a lemon, herb, and butter sauce." Irv Skaff of the Sudbury Inn will make "Summer In Maine Lobster Salad," which he describes as "chilled Maine lobster with fresh Maine raspberries and strawberries, assorted vegetables, in a raspberry and lobster vinaigrette." Stone's particular area of interest is cold foods, while Skaff specializes in regional cuisine. The competition will be all in the family – Stone's wife Kelly, the sous chef at the Sudbury, came up with the idea for Skaff's recipe. "I just elaborated on it," said Skaff. Kelly will accompany Skaff to help him in the Blaine House competition.

ROSE V. WARRINGTON

Rose V. Warrington, 84, died Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1995, at the home of her daughter in Portland.

Mrs. Warrington was born in Wilmington, Del., daughter of Hyman and Fannie Bleicher Vittes. She was a graduate of Goldie Beacon Business College.

She worked as a bookkeeper for many years. After her marriage, she worked in Greenwood and Milford, Del., school cafeterias. In 1965, she and her husband moved to Bethel to be near their grandchildren and she was active in the United Methodist Church in Bethel.

In 1975, she and her husband returned to Delaware. She belonged to the St. Johnstown Methodist Church where she taught the adult Sunday school class for many years. She was also a member of the Avenue Methodist Church where she was active in the Women's Circle. She was founder and charter member of the Ostomy Association of Southern Delaware. She visited New Astromatis and helped them to accept and learn about their new way of life. She valued education and continued to learn throughout her life. She made substantial sacrifices to educate her daughter.

Her husband of 59 years, Earl M. Warrington, died last November at their home.

Survivors include a daughter, Joan W. Chadbourne of Portland; a sister, Eva Vittes of Wilmington, Del.; three granddaughters, Deborah and Tanya Chadbourne of Portland and Dori Gouin of Boston, Mass.; and twin great-grandsons of Boston, Mass.

A celebration of her life was held Saturday, Aug. 5, at Hay & Peabody, Portland. Burial will be in the St. Johnstown Cemetery, Greenwood, Del., at a later date.

SAMUEL R. BAILEY

Samuel R. Bailey, 75, of Merrill Street, Amesbury, Mass., died Sunday afternoon, Aug. 5, 1995, at the Anna Jaques Hospital in Newburyport, Mass. He was the husband of Frances (Bartlett) Bailey.

Born in Westfield, N.J., Dec. 10, 1919, he was the son of the late Samuel R. and Helen (Jackson) Bailey and was a member of Amesbury High School, Class of 1938. He attended Worcester Junior College, Boston University, Northeastern University, and the University of New Hampshire.

An ardent boatman and skier, he was a member of the United States Power Squadron and the Sunday River Ski Club. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, family and friends spent many happy times at their chalet at Sunday River (1968-1994). Two children, Bartlett and Stephanie, are graduates of Gould Academy in the classes of 1971 and 1973.

Mr. Bailey served with the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary and was a member of the Northeast Harbormasters' Association.

He was president and general manager of the Bailey Company, Inc., of Amesbury, Mass., and Seabrook, N.H., retiring in 1971 after 34 years. Following his retirement, he was president of North Country Management Corp. and was a senior consultant with the Manufacturing Management. For the past 10 years, he had been employed as an engineer for Bartley Machine & Mfg. Company of Amesbury.

He served on the Amesbury Planning Board and spent six years as a member of the Amesbury School Committee. He was a second-generation harbormaster and served the town of Amesbury in that position from 1951 to 1994. He also served on the board of directors and executive committee of the Massachusetts Safety Council and was chapter president and international vice president of the Society for the Advancement of Management. He was former president of the Amesbury Rotary Club and a member of the Katahdin Club and the Amesbury Carriage Museum.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three sons: Samuel R. Bailey, Jr. of Phoenix, Ariz., Jackson D. Bailey and Bartlett J. ("Bart") Bailey, both of Amesbury; three daughters: Shirley B. (Mrs. William S.) Owen of Southboro, Frances B. (Mrs. Richard) Lalley of Newmarket, N.H., and Stephanie Bailey of San Diego, Calif.; two sisters: Margery (Mrs. Dudley) Follansbee of South Harpswell; and Virginia (Mrs. John) Muniz of Hampton, N.H.; one aunt, Ruth Jackson of Hampton, N.H.; 11 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

A funeral mass was scheduled for 11 a.m., Wednesday, Aug. 9, at Sacred Heart Church, Friend Street, Amesbury. Private interment in Bartlett Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Amesbury Carriage Museum, P.O. Box 252, Amesbury, MA 01913

Thank You God

Say nine Hail Mary's for nine days and ask for three wishes: first business, second and third is for the impossible. Have this published on the ninth day and your wishes will come true even though you don't believe in it. MW

In Memory of Melvin A. Jodrey

On the banks of the beautiful Androscoggin nestled among the pines, there in peaceful sleep you rest dear son of mine. God will keep you in his loving care, until once more I will join you there.

Thinking of you, Mom!
